

Due Diligence

Due Diligence is a critical step in any investment, acquisition or sale process, providing an independent assessment of the business from which a potential investor or funder is able to make an informed decision.

Making An Informed Decision

Once an acquisition, investment or sale opportunity is identified it is vital that rigorous checks are made to ensure all is as it seems. Our team of independent and expert advisors have extensive experience in a wide range of sectors and are able to undertake in-depth research on a target business and then report back in a clear and concise format on any significant concerns, enabling you to make an informed decision whether to proceed or not. We appreciate the importance of working to a tight time-table which is why we ensure regular two-way communication and agree the scope of the review at the outset. We take great care to deliver reports that reflect our client's needs but at the same time remain objective. If we uncover sensitive or critical issues we bring these to your attention immediately and work with you to evaluate the implications and assess how best to proceed.
